About Cookies

Cookies are a feature whereby your web browser remembers information about your visit to a website. To improve the convenience and quality of our website, we use cookies to collect and analyze access logs in order to understand how it is being used. We use the information we collect through cookies to provide visitors to our website with services and information tailored to their interests. To use our website, you need to agree to our use of cookies.

Use of Access Logs

Our tool for collecting and analyzing access logs is as follows:

Tool: Google Analytics

Provider: Google LLC

Note: Please see here for more information about how Google Analytics collects and processes statistics.

How to Manage Cookies

If you want to block cookies or display a warning when they're sent, please change your browser settings. The procedure will depend on the browser. If you want to manage the use of cookies on our website, please refer to your browser's help screen.

Blocking cookies may prevent you from accessing or using some or all of the features, contents, etc. on our website.

We may revise this cookie policy without notice. Changes to the cookie policy will take effect as soon as the revised details are posted on our website.
